

Locally Led Adaptation Action in Japan

Session Outline

Date and Time: 22nd January 2021

13:00 -14: 30 (Bangladesh) / 16:00 -17:30 (Japan)

Session Co-sponsors:

Research Project S-18 on Climate Change Impacts and Adaptation

Global and Local Environment Co-creation institute (GLEC), Ibaraki University

Coordinator: Nobuo Mimura, Professor Emeritus, Ibaraki University

Time (Bangladesh/Japan)		Item	Roles
13:00	16:00	Opening	Prof. Nobuo Mimura
13:05	16:05	Part 1: 5 presentations (8 min per presentation)
		Introduction to the session	Prof. Nobuo Mimura Ibaraki University GLEC
		Co-creating science-based local adaptation: Japan's experience	Dr. Yosifumi Masago National Institute for Environmental Studies (NIES)
		Comparison of adaptation measures for floods in Japan	Prof. So Kazama Tohoku University
		Lessons from town development resistant to flood damage in Japan from the perspective of humanities and social sciences	Prof. Tetsuji Ito Ibaraki University GLEC
		Agricultural adaptation researches in Japan to climate change impacts at multiple scales	Dr. Motoki Nishimori National Agriculture and Food Research Organization (NARO)
13:45	16:45	Part 2: Plenary discussion	Moderator: Prof. Nobuo Mimura
14:15	17:15	Part 3: Wrap-up Prof. Pulhin from University of the Philippines and Dr. Kotera from VJU will give their observations for the session and the moderator will wrap up the session.	Speaker: Prof. Juan M Pulhin University of the Philippines Speaker: Dr. Akihiko Kotera Vietnam-Japan University (VJU)

Please make registration from the following link/QR Code to get ZOOM link for the session

Registration Link

